The CDMO sector is a vital link in the pharmaceutical supply chain, requiring unique skill sets often found outside the traditional talent pool.

But it can be daunting and confusing for those stepping into the industry for the first time, who have the skills, but don't yet speak the 'language' of the sector.

Vector has developed the industry's first onboarding solution to bridge this gap, created with insights from global leaders at CDMOs across the sector.

We help new joiners learn about the services offered by CDMOs, the intricacies of the drug development process and the importance of regulatory compliance and quality management.
